Jim Tuman speaks and brings tears to a listeners eyes. Tuman has appeared on all the major networks, the Today Show, Good Morning America and Phil Donahue. He has been featured in Newsweek, USA Today and the Wall Street Journal. He spoke to over half a million young people in the last year alone. Last week, he brought his Positive School Support team to Romulus High School. No one who attended will be quite the same. ANP photo by Lothar E. Konietzko/chief photographer

The positive approach Speaker tells teens to trust

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

When Steve Anderson, 200-pound football tackle and wrestler at Romulus High School, told several hundred fellow students about his 12-year-old brother who died of cancer this past summer, he cried.

He said, "I never had a chance to tell him, I loved him."

Other students recited similar and even sadder stories.

They were encouraged by guest speaker Jim Tuman of Detroit who founded Volunteers of America several years ago. He addressed the entire school body during two different sessions on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. A special session was conducted for both teachers and parents.

The purpose of Tuman's speech, according to principal E.L. Sheffield, was "to help individuals identify a positive attitude."

This positive attitude could then be utilized to combat the problem of suicide, the objective and theme of Tuman's presentation.

"There are no guarantees for anything in life," he said. "Raise your hand if you attended a funeral within the last year." Every single hand in the school audience rose.

"Raise your hand if you thought they died too soon," he asked and again all hands raised.

"If you thought you would magically be here tomorrow or the day after, think again. If you're waiting for your life to fall in place, think again," he said.

The audience sat spellbound as he spoke before them without the aid of a microphone. He asked someone for a dollar bill and then ripped it up.

"If this in the only thing that means anything in your life, your life will never mean anything. Make people in your life first, not things," he told the students.

He asked students why they like their friends, specifically their best friends. He pointed out that nobody said they liked their friends because of money, cars or clothes. They did say that trust, freedom, understanding and love were the reasons.

He told them about how he changed schools five times, and tried to commit suicide three times. "I was incredibly shy with a thorough lack of self-confidence. At the same time, I was popular. As class vice-president and a state football player, I was always surrounded by lots of people. Yet nobody could get through to me. I was living off an image," confessed the Michigan State University graduate.

As Tuman shared stories from his life and people he knew, he encouraged students to tell those in their lives who meant something to them, that they loved them.

And one by one, students took the microphone and told of a friend or relative and how they loved them. They mentioned the grandparents who died last year, before he told them he loved them. Or the step-father who was once hated but now respected. An athlete spoke about his older brother "strung out on drugs."

Tuman told of the handicapped youth who said to the audience, "I didn't mean to be this way. I need friends, too." "If you can't build people up, don't tear them down. Put downs can kill. I've seen it in too many schools," Tuman said.

One student asked for a moment of silence for Bob O'Day. He recalled that fateful afternoon on Jan. 31. How he placed a towel on a bleeding friend and "tried to calm him down." Tuman asked to not let his death have been in vain.

"Don't let his death be just another name on a plaque in a trophy case. He touched so many lives. Tell the person in your life who has made a difference. Make it happen. Loneliness is the most killing thing," he said.

After the assembly, Tuman noted to Sheffield that the situation in Romulus was unique. "He said that he had never seen so many staff members recognized for being special in the eyes of their students. He pointed out that students at Romulus High School were "like a family."

The entire experience will remain with some for lifetime, noted Sheffield. "People have to realize the difference between death and disappearance. There's a big difference. They just want the pain to go away," said Tuman.

When Sheffield told the audience that Romulus High School was the best school anywhere, anywhere, he received a standing ovation.

Volunteers correct tax confusion

A volunteer from General Motors' Diesel Allison Plant in Romulus, Daryl Tindale, assists resident Dorothy McNutt with her Homestead Property Tax Credit form. The free service is available from 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-3:30 p.m. each week day in the Romulus Recreation Building, 36515 Bibbins, until April 15. "If you have received a form from the state of Michigan, we will be glad to assist you in filling it out," said Debbie Dick, recreation director. 'They loved each other' Son charged in father's death

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Today, the day after the funeral of his father, Richard Leroy Demarest Jr., 20, of Harrison Road in Romulus sits in Wayne County Jail charged with first degree murder in the shooting of Richard Leroy Demarest, 44.

The gun reportedly used in the commission of this felony, a 30/30 deer rifle, was a Christmas present from Richard Sr. to his son.

Judge Henry Zaborowski of 34th District Court stated Demarest would be held without bond because this is a "serious capital offense." He scheduled a preliminary examination for 9 a.m. Wednesday, Jan 21.

Demarest was also charged with using a firearm in the commission of a felony, a minimum penalty of two years in prison. The mandatory penalty for first degree murder is life in prison, noted Zaborowski.

"At about 1:50 a.m.," according to police reports, "A family squabble apparently got out of hand. The father and son argued, then the father returned to bed."

"The son came downstairs, loaded his shotgun and walked outside. He fired two rounds at the house, and waited 30-40 seconds. The father said, 'He's taunting me,' and got up to go out. As he stood in a glassed-in back porch, he was shot once in the back. He grabbed his stomach and fell."

"The suspect tried to flee the scene. When the officers arrived, they apprehended him in the driveway," police reported.

The victim's wife, 12-year-old son and family friend were also home at the time but the family's 18-year-old son was not. Police were notified after the shooting.

Friends and neighbors are totally baffled. "I know the family real well. Rich loved his dad. He would not have done this on a normal day. Rich and his girlfriend were arguing. She kept calling him back and his father got mad. Everybody is really confused," said a close friend of Richard Jr.

"I'm worried about Rich. He's probably going crazy thinking about what happened," he added.

"They loved each other," said another friend of the family.

The Demarest family were "good neighbors." "This is a quiet neighborhood. They're real friendly people. They always waved. The father was such a hardworking guy. He seemed to be working all the time. I'm sure like any family they had their ups and downs. We were shocked," said Marlene Giannetti, a Harrison Road resident for 25 years.

"It's a little bit country here, not like the city. I never would have dreamed it was next door. That rifle has a lot of killing power," said neighbor Don Beaton.

Richard Sr. had wanted this Christmas to be extra special. "He wanted to buy them something special to show them how much he cared. His wife didn't even know about it," said Steve Gamsjager, family friend.

Richard Sr. had surprised his family and "went all out this year," Gamsjager said. "All three boys got a hunting gun. They got a television and his wife got an organ. He was a good man and good to everyone. He was always clowning around and had a definite sense of humor. He'd give you the shirt off his back. He worked from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. There were some problems with his son, little things, the usual friction."

Police records show Richard Jr. has had minor confrontations with the law. He had not finished high school. "He was in between jobs but had a new job to go to," said one friend.

Richard Sr. owned the Dandy Rich Donut Shop on Ecorse Road in Taylor. According to friends, he was born and raised in the upper peninsula of Michigan where he learned the skills to be a baker.

For several years, the family raised and boarded horses on their Harrison Road property before they started the donut business three years ago, friends said.

"Rich was proud of his dad because he worked hard but he wasn't home much. His dad was a man who liked to do things himself. His mother worked part-time. They were a normal family," friends said.

"This was purely accidental. It just happened to be the one final incident. He just went over the edge," a family friend noted.

1986 was McAnally's year

Mayor Beverly McAnally is quick to accept responsibility for improved economic health in the city of Romulus. But in the same breath, she credits the professionalism and sophistication of hard working city council members with the positive results.

After all, 1986 has been her year. She shared the concerns of Romulus with mayors across the nation, with southeast Michigan mayors, Wayne County Executive William Lucas and Governor James Blanchard.

And she administered one of the best years ever in the city for building and development.

"The biggest thing about my administration has been the ability of everybody in local government to focus on economic development without sacrificing the city for that development. We did what needed to get done despite our political differences," she said.

She first states that the financial growth of the city is foremost. She sees the new buildings sprouting up around Romulus as a renewed prosperity as well as increased land values, noted by the State Equalized Land Values in the city.

"With state and federal money virtually nonexistent in the city, the city has had to pull itself up from its boot straps. We've been successful. Development is not just in one spot but all over town," McAnally added.

She said the city settled a number of outstanding debts which have benefited the general fund of the city.

Another positive note, the city of Romulus was finally wired for cable television. "I thought we were never going to get cable," she said referring to the number of deadline extensions received by Barden Cable Company.

The physical appearance of the city improved and McAnally pointed to the old feed store on Goddard Road which owners "turned into a viable business."

"It's important Romulus get along with its neighbors. As we joined the Downriver Community Conference, they began to undergo several changes. Our association is mutually beneficial. They have been very gracious," she said.

Both the Downriver Council for the Arts and the Downriver Area Narcotics Office have supplied needed services in the city, according to McAnally.

"I'm very concerned to have a regional overview with a local priority. The city is interacting in the region now more than ever," she noted.

In the next year, McAnally wants to increase recreational opportunities for young people in the city. She would like to pave more roads, including Merriman Road. "If we could accomplish this without creating major trauma in the entire region," she chuckled.

"The general attitude has improved in the city. We're a very divergent group, and it's nice to see the whole community pulling together. In fact, it's super," she said.

Final recognition

The best stories were saved for last

More news happened in Romulus last year than was fit to print. Phone calls and press releases announced events which for one reason or another never made it into the newspaper.

The city of Romulus is unique as some of the following stories, the out-takes of 1986, will attest.

On a sunny Sunday afternoon in October, a young man walked down Middlebelt Road with a video cassette recorder tucked under his arm. A resident called police when she identified the VCR as the one stolen from her home the day before.

Bailey Marie Pichan daughter of Lee and Mary Pichan of Flat Rock, was christened at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, New Boston. She wore an heirloom gown originally made in 1913 by her great-grandmother and passed down through her grandfather, Norman Pichan of New Boston. The gown was worn by his three sons, four grandchildren and one other great-grandchild. "Long and careful mending will preserve this dress for use by many more generations," said Norman.

Winners of the Romulus Men's Wednesday Night Golf League were: first place, Harmon Goetz and Mike Eberly; second place, Ron Dubsky and Dick Niedermeyer; and third place Ron Byrk and Frank Gnas. Neighbor Carol Dupsky recognized Bob and Sheri Brooks of Castle Drive as good samaritans when the Brooks offered their home to an out-of-town family whose car broke down on Goddard Road enroute to a vacation at Niagara Falls. The families spent the next couple of days together and "plan to visit one another next year." "Average people just don't do this," noted Dupsky.

Again neighbors came to the rescue of the family of Ronald Hein, II, 22, of Walnut Street in Romulus who was killed in an automobile crash in late August. They contributed several hundred dollars for funeral expenses. "The Heins are great neighbors. Everybody wanted to donate something," said one concerned neighbor.

Lloyd Mullins, 14, of Romulus Junior High School rode more than 46 miles and pledged $295 to win first place in the Bike-a-thon for St. Jude's Children's Hospital conducted in the city hall parking lot in September. "It was unusual that Lloyd not only rode the most miles but also collected the most money in pledges," said Joan Omarzu, an organizer and teacher from Merriman Elementary School.

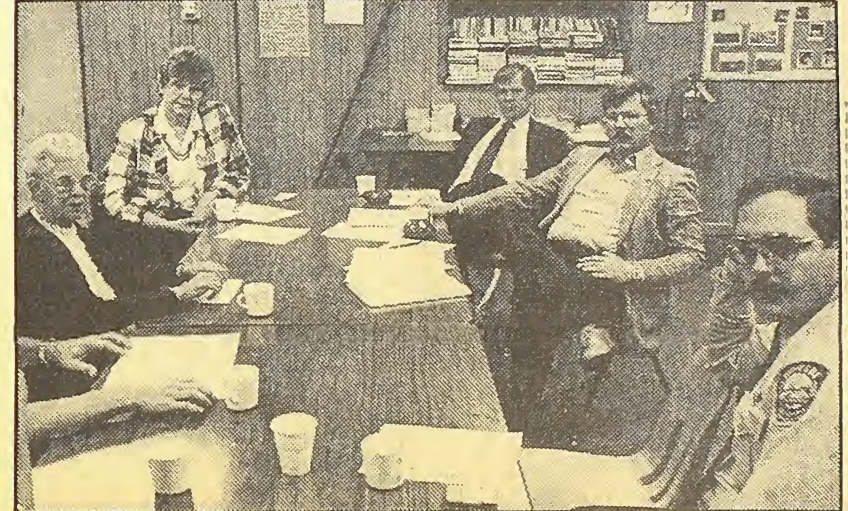

Taking first place the easy way, was Dane Vlaz of Hannan Road who won the Hydromatic Auto Show in Ypsilanti during October. Vlaz is employed as an experimental mechanic at Ford. His truck crossed the quarter mile finish line in 11:90 seconds with an average speed of 111 mph.

SMALL BUSINESSES AND entrepreneurs have the opportunity to participate in a training program offered by the Downriver Metroplex Alliance in January. The series of six, three-hour courses will help small business owners develop quality, customized planning. "The series is a "hands-on" program taught by a faculty member from the University of Michigan-Dearborn, at the Downriver Community Conference, 15100 Northline, Southgate. The sessions will cost $125 per person and begin on Wednesday, Jan. 21, from 6-9 p.m. For information call 281-0700.

SPONSORS OF A BLACK history presentation are soliciting community organizations, churches, schools and individuals to contribute or participate in a local program which will take place in February. Please contact Mrs. Tipson at 483-3270 or Mrs. Woods at 729-6620 or Mrs. Chin at 728-8517.

The first PRINCIPAL'S COFFEE OF the year will be hosted at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 20 by Romulus High School in the library.

Dinner theater date set

A live stage production of "Tarradiddle Tales" will be presented at 6 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 19 at Halecreek Elementary School, 16200 Harrison Road. The dinner theater is sponsored by the Romulus Recreation Department. Admission is $3. Tickets must be purchased by Friday, Jan. 19, at the Recreation Building office.

"Tarradiddle Tales" is a joyous tribute to one of the world's favorite forms of entertainment, the tall tale. Mime, song, dance and storytelling are combined to recapture the exuberance of our world's rich cultural heritage in a show that will be enjoyed by people of all ages," said a recreation department spokesperson. For information call 942-6852.

CANTON RESIDENT ROBERT Benning was recently named to the dean's list at Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology for the fall quarter of the 1986-87 academic year. Students must maintain a 3.3 or higher grade point average to appear on the prestigious list.

TWO LOCAL RESIDENTS will be appearing in teenage pageants during the next few months. Tia Hardeman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hardeman Jr., has been chosen to be a finalist in the 1987 Miss Michigan U.S. teen Pageant to be staged April 25 at the Plymouth Hilton in Plymouth. In addition, Kristine Schurig, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schurig of Wayne, will be appearing in the Miss Jr. America Show Feb. 1 at the Plymouth Hilton.

THE MUNICIPAL COURTS from the cities of Wayne and Westland were named first-place winners in the 1986 Law Day USA Public Service Award Competition for the second year in a row. The 1986 program was done in conjunction with the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and included student participation in a drunk driving mock trial. Students served as jurors and judges during the day-long event, while also touring the police and court facilities and participating in a question and answer period and essay contest with local judges.

CANTON RESIDENT ESTHER Sprengel recently won $60,000 by spinning the "Fall Fiesta" instant game Money Wheel for the Michigan Lottery. Sprengel, a retired secretary from the Plymouth State Home, said she planned to use her new-found wealth to supplement her retirement and that of her husband, William, who will retire from General Motors in July.

IN THE ARMED services, several local residents have been making news. In Canton, Airman Craig Yares has graduated from an Air Force aircraft electrical repair course, David Warunek has been promoted in the Army to the rank of airman first class and Army Pvt. Leo C. Tynan has completed training as an Army military police specialist. In Romulus, Army Pvt. Michael Stanley has completed basic training. And in Westland, Chester L. Folwer has been promoted in the Air Force to the rank of major and Air Force 2nd Lt. Jack Underwood has arrived for duty with the 47th Student Squadron, Laughlin Air Force Base, Texas.

dan's dogs

Fido needs a social life

All dogs need exposure. What is meant by this is NOT exposure to the elements and numerous diseases and insects by being left outside, but exposure to people.

Many people have the impression that a dog isolated from people (visitors, etc.) will be more protective of the family and immediate surroundings. Others believe that only one or two people in the family should train the dog because if only they work with the dog, a thief could not approach the dog, give it a command and, thus, gain entry into their house.

Then there are those dog owners who feel that dominating their dog in a bully-type fashion will make the dog "macho." They don't want a "wimpy" dog, so they make certain the dog receives no praise or affection, just daily slaps or reprimands in order (they think) to make the dog aggressive and strong!

All of the above situations are wrong!
Isolating a dog

turns it into a wimp—exactly what the owner is trying to avoid. This particular kind of wimp is deceiving, through, because it resembles an aggressive, confident animal. When strangers approach, this type of dog will bark, growl, lunge and snarl. In actuality, the dog is not confident. It is frightened and insecure. It will bite someone not to protect the owner but to protect himself, then will run in the opposite direction. You may think this is okay, but what if the person he bites is an innocent child, a lawyer or a policeman?

Leaving a dog outdoors has been discussed, at length, in other columns. The end result, too, is identical to the dog not socialized — one who is afraid of people and will bite out of fear. The dog reacts in a fearful way toward people simply because it is not used to being around them.

Mr. Macho, who won't stoop to give his dog affection, produces a dog lacking confidence and one who is difficult to train. How can a dog hope to please a master who can never be pleased. So to gain some form of attention this type of victim (the dog) resorts to all sorts of obnoxious behavior to gain attention. If the owner beats the dog for his bad actions, the dog is grateful for even that type of physical contact and misbehaves over and over again to receive any type of "affection" — even if it's a beating.

Dogs described above are disliked and feared by visitors, relatives and neighbors. They eventually get a bad reputation which follows them and any of their breed for years. And who gave them this reputation? The owner!

Just as parents are responsible and bear the agonies of a disobedient dog. Both are an embarrassment to the owners of a

Weather or not

Birds, woolly bears predict cold winter

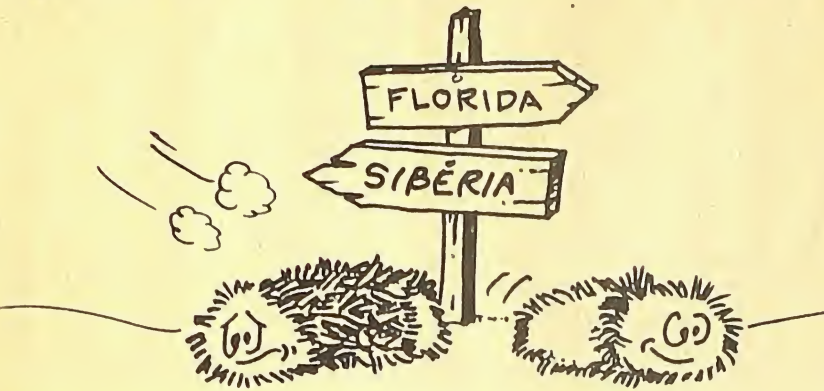

By JOAN MARY DYER
ANP Staff Writer

Long before computers, radar and satellites were available to forecast the weather, farmers observed the signs of nature to help them plan for the coming seasons.

Using the techniques of the past century, the naturalists at the Huron-Clinton Metroparks predicted "a bad winter." However, since a few of the signs were "iffy," according to naturalist Jerry Wykes, he cautioned that the results should not be taken too seriously.

"We have to remember that the people in those days didn't have the tools available to predict the weather that we have today, and the changes in the weather were very important to them," Wykes said. "Weather was important for good crops and even to life itself."

Wykes checked out the squirrels and woolly bear caterpillars at the Oakwoods Nature Center during the late fall to help forecast the severity of the winter. According to the old lore, if the squirrels have thick, bushy tails and the woolly bears have a broad middle band - thought to resemble a sweater - the winter will be a cold one. By this standard, the winter of 1987 should be severe.

However, some controversy exists about the interpretation of the woolly bear's striping, with some individuals taking the stand that the broad middle band means a mild winter.

The naturalist believes that the animals cannot make "long range predictions" but that they respond to the high and low pressures and adjust to short-term changes in them.

Animals have to be able to adjust in order to survive, Wykes noted. If they are not adaptable, they would not be able to find food and shelter.

Another sign of a cold winter, Wykes said is a heavy shell on hickory nuts. The naturalist challenges this with the information that new species of hickory nuts always have thin shells. The belief that a bountiful crop of nuts foretells a bad winter, also is disputed by Wykes who reported that trees normally produce in cycles with some heavy years and then very light ones.

Farmers in the last century cut down hornets nests to measure the thickness of them in the belief that a paper thin nest meant a mild winter and a thick one revealed a cold winter. Again, the naturalist disputed the folk lore stating that the nest does not have to survive the winter anyway because only the queen survives and all of the other hornets in the nest die in the first frost.

Wykes has noticed some different signs this season but does not place any special interpretation on them. First, he said, usually one-third of the robins in the metropark stay though the winter but this year all of them appear to have migrated. Wykes and other naturalists have also noticed an increasing number of the giant Canada geese remaining in the park this year. A flock of some 150 birds are wintering at Oakwoods Park, he said, and others are staying through the winter in other places in the area where there is open water and food available.

Taking all of the signs of nature into consideration, Wykes said, predicting the weather is still a 50-50 proposition. Even the highly-touted meteorologists who present their predictions on nightly television shows have a high percentage of inaccuracy - even with their sophisticated equipment.

Be honest. When was the last time you took the time to make your child feel that you cared? Really cared. Oh, sure, being a parent isn't easy these days. But being a child has never been more difficult. Children are our most precious natural resource. Our future. That's why Channel 2 has committed itself to a major community project called "For Kids' Sake".

All through the year "For Kids' Sake" will bring you special dramatic programs, news stories, and more - all aimed at helping parents and children understand each other's needs and responsibilities. Please take the time to watch. Join us. For all our sake. For kids' sake.

Seniors get state funding

BELLEVILLE – The September Days Senior Citizens Center, Sumpter Township and Belleville are the recipients of a state grant from the Commission on Aging.

The September Days program at Quirk School was awarded $1,456 in state funding for emergency needs, senior center renovation and materials.

In addition, Sumpter Township and Belleville received $4,350 in the state grant monies which were distributed to more than 80 Michigan

news in brief

senior centers by the State Commission on Services to the Aging recently.

Area gets refund

BELLEVILLE/ROMULUS – Both the cities of Belleville and Romulus will be receiving a refund from the Michigan Municipal Worker's Compensation Fund.

More than $4 million is being returned to more than 300 members of the fund, members which are also a part of the Michigan Municipal League.

This is the eighth consecutive year the refunds have been given. Surplus funds in each of five prior fiscal years are being distributed to members on a pro-rata basis.

The city of Belleville will receive a $4,116.07 refund, while Romulus will receive a refund of $26,337.43, according to the MML.

Beard is appointed

INKSTER – Wayne County Commissioner Kay Beard (D-Inkster) has been appointed vice chairperson of the Audit Committee of the county Board of Commissioners as well as a member of the Health and Human Services Committee and the Special Enhanced 911 Committee.

Beard has been elected to the board for five consecutive terms and represents the 12th county district.

Essay writers are sought from area

A few good writers are being sought by the U.S. Department of Education for a nationwide essay contest on "What the Constitution Means to Me and to Our Country."

The event is a part of the celebration commemorating the bicentennial of the Constitution. Based on a formula developed by the Education Department, Michigan will be allowed to submit a total of 40 essays from students in grades 1-8. Private schools may also submit up to four essays.

Winners will be selected by a panel chosen by the Education Department with the winners being invited to Washington to a recognition ceremony. Winning essays will be published in a booklet to be displayed in the Library of Congress.

Interested writers should contact 17th District Congressman Sander Levin at 559-4444.

Psychic reveals January horoscopes

By ROSEMARY NEAR
ANP Special Writer

AIRES (March 21-April 19) Your ambitions kick into high gear as you reach for genuine security, especially around the middle of the month. Don't be afraid of success. Relationship with the women around you becomes more open. New friends come into your life towards the end of the month. They can bring some excitement and some eccentric stuff too. Watch your impulsive nature and don't let bad influences or peer pressure get in the way.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're seeing beliefs and philosophies very logically. But not everything can be analyzed that way. Something that's emotionally based may not be sensible, but it can be very real. Share how you feel with others for some genuine feedback. You may be ready to make a new direction in your career. Friends will help if you share those goals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) You must be sensible with finances this month. If you don't, you could get some heavy news around the middle of the month. The end of the month brings changes in your belief system. You've got a lot of opportunities around you, but they can seem like obstacles if you don't have clear goals. You've got more power over your life than you've had in a long time. If you don't use it properly, you can lose that control. Or, others can take it. Stay sensible.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) Be kind with your word and try to put yourself in the other person's place. If you're changing, it doesn't mean the others are now wrong. You may be thinking of running away from home in some way. Your idea of "honesty" may not have anything at all to do with truth, only your interpretation of what is honest. Don't hurt someone who loves you. You may break out of your dark cloud if you want to.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) New relationship or renewing a current relationship is highlighted this month. Communications start to flow. If the words seem hard, just keep working on it to soften them up. You may be afraid to make decisions, but nothing ever stays the same anyway. You'll be much better off if you don't resist changes. Money can improve through mutual efforts. Work hard with a partner and benefits will come in.

who really cares about you may say something that you hate hearing. But this is a true friend who isn't only going to tell you what you want to hear. This will probably re-construct something that needed it. By the end of the month everything is much smoother, and much better than it ever was. You're changing your idea of what you want in a relationship and releasing what has held you back from being happy. It's a lot easier than you thought!

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Are you thinking of moving? It probably has something to do with work. Make sure everything is clarified in writing. Do some shopping for things that better your life style. There may be changes in love, and these changes will free you up from a lot of restrictions. Fun will start soon afterward, so look forward to these developments. You'll like them!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) You may see "karmic justice" done this month. Those who have been deceptive are exposed. Recognize who are real friends and who are manipulators. Expect a surprise around the end of the month. It may be a female who acts totally out of character. Unexpected expenses need to be prepared for, so put some money into a secret

Statues to earn awards

Ice sculptors from all over the world will exhibit their art works from Jan. 8 through 18 at the annual Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular.

At stake for the professionals will be a free round trip aboard Northwest Airlines to Sapporo, Japan, to represent North America in the Sapporo Snow Festival in February. The winner also will receive a round trip anywhere in the U.S. where the airline flies. Second place through sixth place winners will receive a round trip for two to a destination in the U.S.

Prizes for first- to sixth-place winners in the student competition will receive round trip tickets for two to any U.S. destination. Students also will be eligible for cash scholarships and medals.

The event this year has been designated as an official Michigan Sesquicentennial event by the Michigan Department of Commerce. The sesquicentennial centerpiece, "Symphony on Ice," will feature 50 or more musical instruments on stage, under colored lights, with taped music. The center of activity will involve some 15 major works in Kellogg Park. Individual carvings also will be located along the streets of downtown Plymouth.

Speakers to meet

The new Westland Toastmaster's Club will conduct its first meeting at 8:30 a.m. Jan. 10 at the Elias Brothers Restaurant on Wayne Road.

The club will meet each Saturday morning at the same time.

A job well done

Politicians and city officials, by the nature of the positions they fill, usually make excellent targets for the slings and arrows of criticism. These barbs are hurled at them by local citizens when their perceived needs are not met, and, quite often, by us, when we feel they may not have acted wisely or in the best interest of those whom they were elected to represent.

There is a time, however, when objectively, they must be lauded, individually and collectively, for the job they do and the service they provide to the community.

We often wonder why they do it. Realistically, politics at a local level is an unrewarding, and usually unfulfilling, job. What kind of person would seek a part time job which takes the amount of time local politics entails? Uninformed citizens who may think that all these men and women do is attend meetings once or twice a month, state their opinions and take home a check for showing up are in serious error.

While we may often disagree with the decisions that these local people make, or may feel they have based their decisions on less than adequate or correct information, the responsibility they feel and the dedication they exhibit must be admired and lauded. These are people who have a sincere desire to serve the community in which they live.

We agree that many of them may have at first sought election for their own greater honor and glory or for the self-aggrandizement they perceived they would find being a council member or a mayor or supervisor. But we also know that they soon found out that they had a difficult, time consuming job of exceptional responsibility and importance.

These men and women actually manage and operate the municipalities in which we live. They spend and are responsible for the tax money that every resident pays to the local governing body. They actually control the quality and amount of police and fire protection each of us receives and the educational opportunities of our children.

We suggest that each of us think about that very, very carefully. If the police don't show when we are in jeopardy or if the fire department ignores our call for medical or fire department aid, or our children don't learn to read...these elected officials are ultimately the ones responsible.

Yes, they delegate the responsibility to others, to teachers, to public safety directors, police chiefs, fire chiefs and school superintendents, but ultimately the mantle of responsibility rests with them.

They are the ones who receive the late night phone calls at home, on holidays, and weekends from residents upset because they received a citation from the building department inspector or because their neighbor hasn't disposed of his garbage properly or is burning leaves. They are the ones who sit at public meetings regularly and are questioned, insulted and sometimes harassed by citizens who have complaints ranging from serious to ridiculous.

No, theirs' is not an easy job - and we sometimes make it a great deal tougher by doing ours. Because when they don't perform, perform in less than a satisfactory manner or make a mistake, we are there to report it on the front page and often chastise them on the editorial page.

But make no mistake. We admire them, each and every one for the efforts they have exhibited during the year and the good grace with which nearly all of them serve.

We just thought you ought to know.

Changing polarity in 1987

Entering a new year for most seems to be a time for a review of that which is right or wrong about our lives. Having completed this personal catharsis, we tend to resolve to make our lives better by purging that which we know should be different.

For many the mood lasts but a short time, and the pain that would have to be endured to complete any significant change is deemed too great a price to pay. Then, we fall back into the familiar rut.

It is also more comfortable to stay where we are physically, psychologically or spiritually, rather than paying the price in time, money and energy to experience change. To rationalize our maintenance of the status quo, we can always blame others or outside circumstances.

What is to be done, however, when our conscience will not bend far enough to allows us to continue to live in comfort with that which should have become unacceptable long ago?

How does one go about the business of breaking a bad habit, completing an unpleasant task we perpetually avoid, or making a major alteration in our associations or lifestyle?

To suggest that there is some magic formula for changing our lives which could be followed with a guarantee of success would be foolish, indeed.

What I do know is that in my experience there are certain truths that should be considered when attempting to make these alterations.

I have methodically observed those who have some vice ranging from smoking, drinking, gambling and the like, to bad habits such as swearing, being rude to others, the taking of long lunch hours or repeatedly calling in "sick" at the office.

The elements that must be present to make a change seem to be fairly uniform, although the level of dedication must coincide with the magnitude of the problem. Much like rooting out a taller weed that has deep roots, or moving a larger pile of rubble, far more energy must be expended.

It is my conviction that you must think you can do it, and you must want to do it or else you are simply playing games. I am equally convinced that the axiom about there being no substitute for hard work and perserverance is always applicable.

Now having covered the old cliches, perhaps I can suggest a few new ideas as to how to attack old problems and improve your chances of success.

When scientists experiment with mice in a maze, they refer to an attraction such as cheese as "approach" and a negative such as an electric charge as "avoidance".

It therefore seems obvious to me that when we are attracted to something that is bad for us but the negative we face when considering change seems too great to overcome, then we must take steps to make the attraction more painful and the painful more attractive. Seems simple to me. Well in theory, at least.

If a smoker knows he must quit, and he stops buying cigarettes and takes the money, he saves and uses it for something he knows he could never afford, he has begun to reverse the polarity of the situation. If, furthermore, he drills into his mind a mental picture of all the negatives of smoking that pops up whenever he is tempted, he has begun to make the negative positive.

Let's say every time you want to light up a cigarette, a picture of your loved ones visiting

The solution is personal

No amount of rhetoric – however persuasive and profound it may be – will calm the waters between the so-called pro-lifers and the pro-choice advocates. It seems to be an issue that stirs up strong feelings and allows little or no room for compromise.

Today, the words abortion or anti-abortion have been replaced with the euphemisms, pro-life and pro-choice, erroneously inferring that those who favor choice do not favor life.

It is for the theologians, scientists, philosophers, physicians and scholars to debate the point at which life begins. It is an issue that is best not left to politicians – incumbents or challengers – or even to journalists and editors. It is an issue, I believe, that should be left to a woman and her physician.

On the Saturday preceding the election, I reported on a rally for Democratic candidates in Westland. Outside the hall, a group of chanting protesters held up placards and called out, "a vote for Blanchard is a vote to kill babies."

The signs and chanting were largely ignored by those who entered the hall, but the message lingered with me and troubled me for some time after the event was over.

Although Blanchard has refused to withhold funds for abortions to women on welfare, he – and no other sane elected official – has ever promoted abortion. Whatever laws are passed by the legislature and signed by the governor will not influence women to choose abortion rather than bearing children.

Even if we would like to legislate morality, we cannot do so. We have but to look back on our noble experiment to ban "demon rum" to see what happened in our country when there was a national attempt to legislate morals. Clearly, people who choose to consume alcoholic beverages will do so, law or no law, and women who choose to have abortions will do so – in hospitals or back alley rooms - regardless of whether the law sanctions them or not.

In reality, the law now merely allows poor women the same privileges that affluent women have always had. In years past, the young woman who "loved unwisely" either patronized a neighborhood abortionist or "vacationed" out of the country, depending on her financial situation. For the affluent there was always an opportunity to travel to another state or another country where abortions were legal. The poor woman stayed home and took her chances, often with deadly results.

If we lived in an ideal world, no one would conceive a child who did not want to be a parent and who would not provide a loving, caring and nurturing home for the child. Unfortunately, this is the real world where a responsible attitude toward sex and pregnancy seems to be sadly lacking.

I am appalled that the largest increases in our national birth rate are not among the educated and self-supporting population, but among the young, uneducated, unved and unemployed population. This is the very combination that statistics reveal as those who have the most instances of child abuse and neglect.

On the other hand, I am also appalled that enough lives to populate a major city are aborted every year.

No matter what decisions are made in Lansing or Washington, the problem of irresponsible pregnancies seems likely to continue, and, consequently, the likelihood of abortions being performed will continue.

However, let us not misdirect the blame to an elected official. The problem is one of personal responsibility, and until that fact is addressed, there will be no solution.

An April storm

We have, it appears, upset a number of Romulus residents with the photo and story on the front page of the Romulus Roman last week announcing the birth of the first baby of 1987.

What has caused the phones to ring and the criticism to flow is the marital status of the parents of April Maria Williams. They are unmarried.

We have been told, politely, but in no uncertain terms, that to publicize the birth of this child is placing our stamp of moral approval on the conduct of the parents. We have also been told that to publish the account of this birth is tantamount to urging other young people to subscribe to conduct which is considered less than morally correct by many in the community.

We seriously never thought of it that way. For years, we have traditionally reported this first birth in local communities. Perhaps we have become jaded to the fact that many unmarried women are becoming mothers these days. Such births, are, after all, hardly uncommon in the society of today.

But we were severely chastised by our callers who reminded us of the importance that a small-town weekly newspaper has in the community. We were also reminded that it is considered by many our job to promote family values and morals—not to suborn them in any manner, no matter how subliminal such action may be.

Our moral judgments are reserved for the editorial page, and quite frankly, we regret the interpretation some found in the story of April Williams and her parents. We made no moral judgments in writing or preparing the story—and many see that as a problem.

April was the first baby of the year, and we reported that. We gave little or no thought to the marital status of her parents, and perhaps we should have done so. Perhaps we should have made an attempt to judge the morals of the people involved in the story, and disallowed April as the first baby due to the circumstances of her birth.

We, like so many others in society today, accept unmarried parenthood as an everyday occurrence. But there are those who hold to values which do not condone or accept this conduct. There are those who uphold values taught by many of our churches and civic leaders and who have exceptionally high standards of acceptable conduct for themselves and their families.

We know this to be true because we heard from them, and they let us know just how offended they were by what they considered the aggrandizement of moral conduct they find unacceptable.

They took us to task and in doing so won our respect and our admiration. Our society today would be vastly improved if we could all learn a lesson from them. No matter how prevalent certain conduct may be, some people still have the moral courage and character to establish values of their own.

We will be far more careful in the future.

This Bud's for you

A recent resolution approved by the members of the Westland City Council has us somewhat confused.

At the regular meeting of the governing body, a resolution supporting a boycott of six Coors products was approved without comment along with 11 other items on the consent calendar. The resolution asked that a boycott of Coors products be maintained "until Coors recognizes dignity and democracy in the workplace and the dignity and democracy of all persons it asks to consume its products."

Where is the evidence that the company does not already do this? Where was the support and discussion for the approval of such a resolution? Where was the discussion and public explanation for the representatives of the voters of Westland to take such an action? Do the majority of Westland citizens agree that the Coors company has violated the rights of women, minorities, gays, lesbians and environmentalists?

According to a spokesman for the Coors Company, more than $12 million in revenue was generated in Michigan by the company last year in the form of employment, taxes and purchasing. He added that the company markets through a minority owned distributor in Detroit and has earmarked nearly $325 million to expand opportunities for minorities. Additionally, the company was named Employer of the Year in 1985 by the Colorado Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Strong arguments indeed against the charges leveled at them in this resolution. According to a local distributor, the introduction of Coors to the area has added 15 jobs to the local payroll and 10 of the total of 60 employees of his company are Westland residents. All are represented by a union.

Where did this resolution come from? Who placed it on the agenda? Where is the argument for such a boycott?

Perhaps all this information came at a study session of the council, but if that is so, then some explanation was due the members of the audience who heard this resolution approved—and some public explanation in the recorded minutes should have been offered.

There may be justification for the vote of the council, but if so, it remains a secret.

A boycott of this type is very serious business. To be reduced to a matter on the consent calendar and given perfunctory approval seems less than adequate attention to us in a matter of this type. If this boycott were to take effect, could it not become a threat to the 10 local citizens who are employed at this company?

The state of Michigan has no room for further plant closings and business failures. The $12 million Coors reports in state revenue is important at both the state and local levels to the economic picture and climate here.

After hearing what Coors has to say, we'll drink to their success.

How could I resist?

I recently found myself in the unfamiliar territory of the daytime homebound. I was also in the unaccustomed occupation of nurse due to the illness of my wife. And, as I spent several days at home caring for her, one situation precipitated the other.

I discovered that after the surgical pain begins to subside, the pillows are fluffed, the heating pad in place and the orange juice has been consumed along with the prescribed dose of painkillers, most convalescents turn to television while waiting for nature to knit the surgeon's handiwork. And what is a devoted nurse to do but join the recuperating patient?

It is in daytime television that I discovered a world not to be believed. For those of you relatively normal people who go to work in the morning and come home in the evening and therefore have not experienced this daytime phenomenon, I will elaborate.

Let me ask you, how many of you know that you can sit in your living room and buy things that you could never imagine you wanted, or needed? This less-than-prudent shopping is accomplished simply by dialing a secret telephone code number which I have determined is either the most dangerous secret in America today, or a Communist plot to overthrow our economy. It may be working.

If you promise not to tell anyone else I will share this secret code with you. Okay, are ready? Here it is, but remember, don't tell anybody. The secret numbers are . . . 1-800 . . .

Using this number you can acquire a free telephone with a magazine subscription, five genuine rings for $19.95, (they don't say genuine what), the original Ginsu knife, a collection of every song ever written since the dawn of mankind in four albums or two cassettes for only $29.95, or a ladder that contorts into shapes heretofore unknown in this galaxy.

And who could resist a genuine replica of a bridal doll from the Tongo Islands, offered for a limited time only at a mere $79.99?

I was particularly taken with the collection of old west books that can be yours for an unknown price. They will arrive every 30 days for an infinite number of months, as will the invoices. This is not to mention the collection of World War II tales of carnage and mayhem. Buying these through this once-in-a-lifetime offer also will get you four pictures of actual planes used during the war. Seeing the samples of these war chronicles, I only wish that I could have been there, but I guess this is the next best thing. There is a comparable series on Vietnam, but I couldn't even stomach the commercials for that trip into hell.

I had no idea that I had been missing out on this other world all these years. So what if it's cotton candy for the brain, so what if you are at risk from a diabetic coma from an excess of mental junk food?

When I discovered what they call "soaps" I was enthralled. For those unfamiliar, they're like a low budget "Dynasty," and it seems as though personal problems of the protagonists take much longer to solve. The camera work is not as good as "Falcon Crest" and the people by and large are not as pretty as on "Dallas."

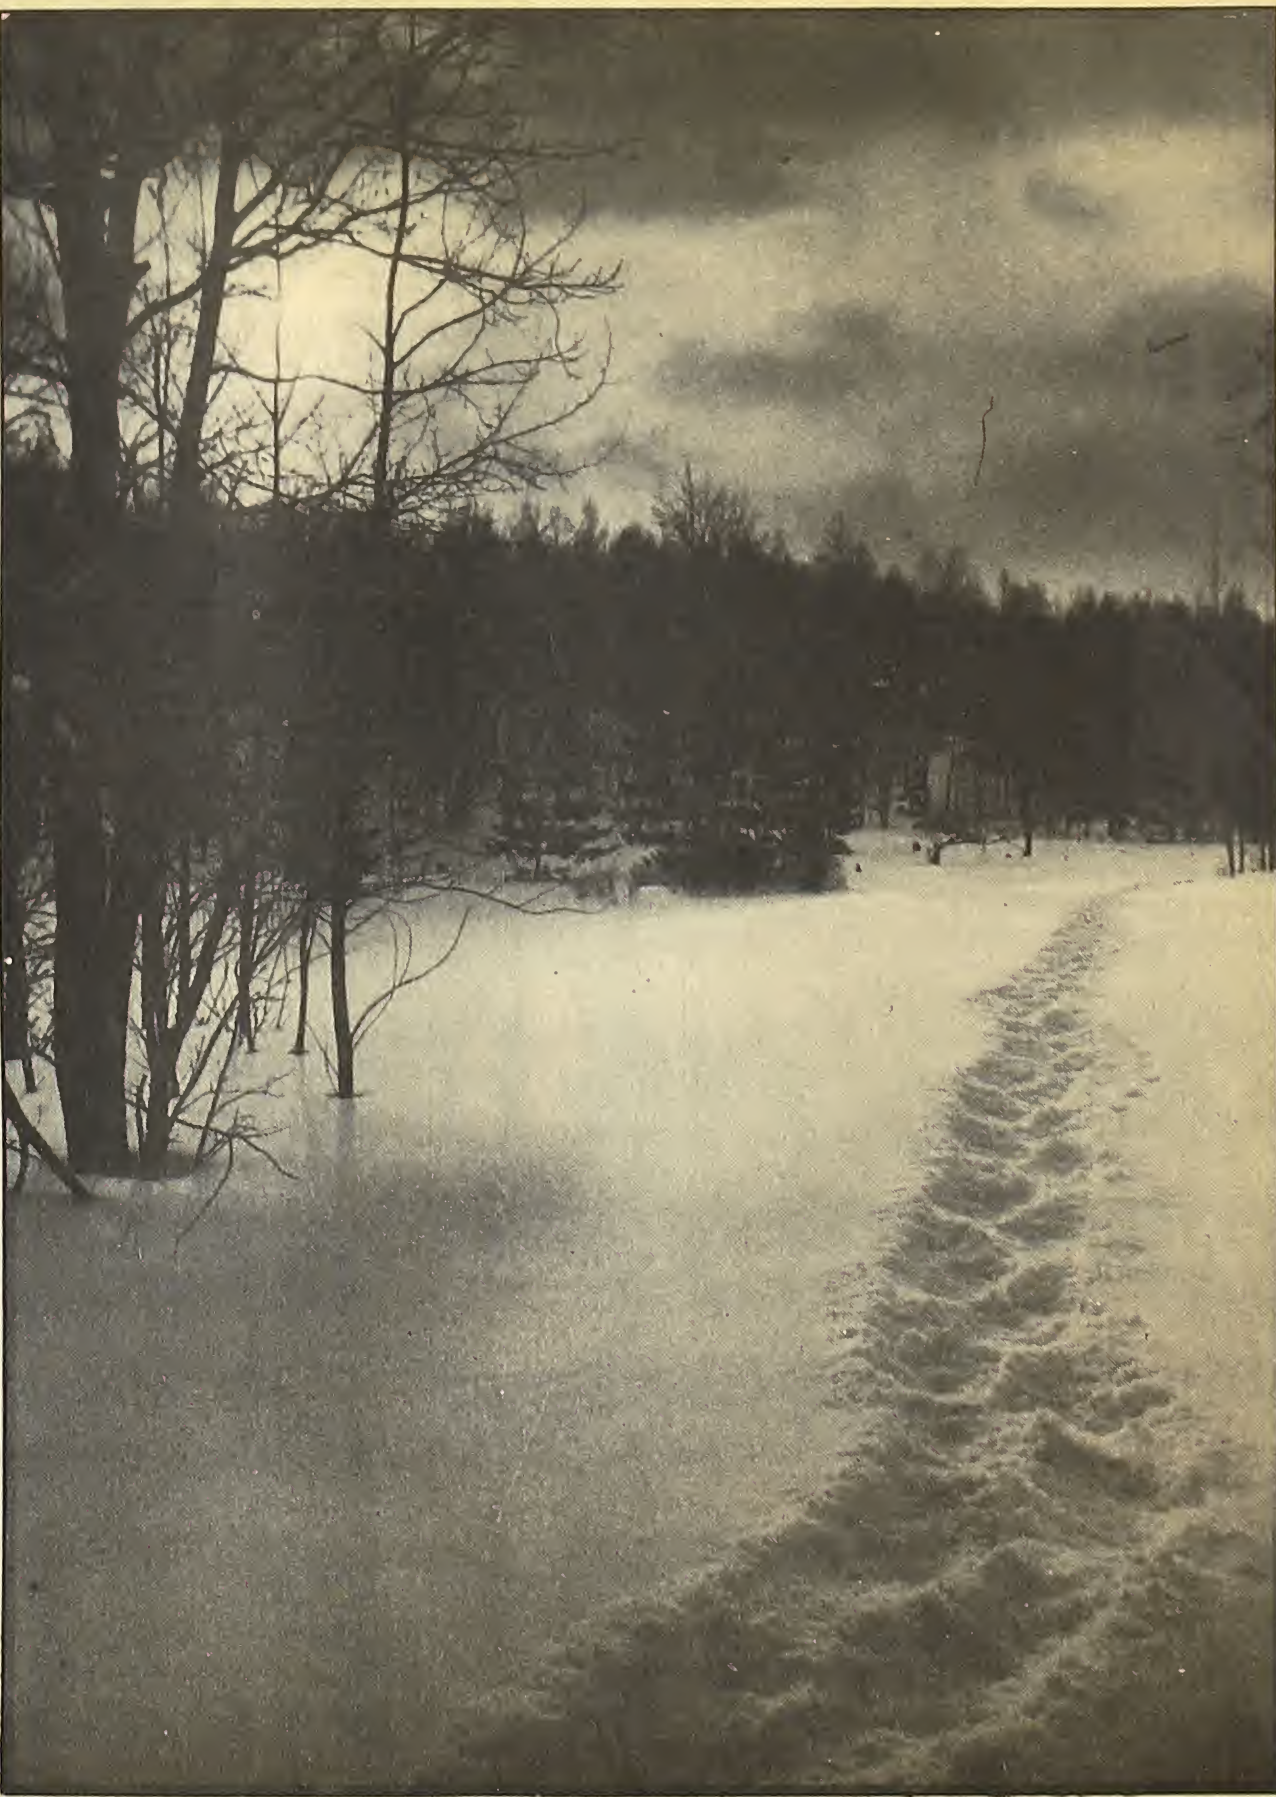

For years I have struggled to make a living, grinding it out a buck at a time, and now I have learned, thanks to daytime TV, one of the great truths of life. You can make your fortune in real estate the same way Rockefeller did, . . . and, here's the best part, you can do it with NO MONEY DOWN.

Is this great or what! It's of little concern to me that in the time I spent worshipping the daytime tele god, I spent more than it cost for my wife's surgery, which by the way came to more than $12,000. Me worried, un uh, no sir-

Officer lauds team

To the Editor:

Numerous articles appear in your newspapers describing actions taken by the police department involving the solving of cases or important arrests. In most of these articles a single spokesperson or command officer is quoted regarding the events which took place. I feel this sometimes gives your readers the impression of a "one man operation" or a single person being responsible for the actions stated in your article.

Virtually all police actions are a team effort and involve a number of officers, dispatchers and of course citizen cooperation. Obviously all the persons involved cannot be named in a story. I only hope that when your readers look at these articles and are pleased with the actions taken by the police that they remember this reflects on the department as a whole and in the majority of cases was not brought about by the spokesperson in the article alone.

Romulus police officers have been involved in a number of incidents in the past few weeks where exemplary actions and professionalism was shown by the officers involved. I am personally fortunate to be a co-worker with these fine officers and sincerely hope your readers appreciate the dedication of this department as a whole.

Advertising in city newspaper gets support

To The Editor:

I am appalled with the attitude of such "supposed" civic-minded residents as Mildred Evans who question the propriety of paid advertising in the new "Spirit of Westland." Why do these citizens prefer to pay for the publication and distribution of their community newsletter out of their own pockets when such an attractive alternative exists?

Selling advertising in this manner to defray costs would be fiscally responsible behavior for any municipal government.

I question whether Ms. Evans and the other residents would have so loudly disapproved had the advertising been done by someone of their own choosing.

Tackling sorrow with love and care

Paulette Crane enjoys being able to comfort people

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

She pauses, and then confesses that life as the wife of the owner of the only funeral home in the city is "a big change."

Paulette Crane has accepted the changes and adjusted well. She married Bill Crane, of Baum-Crane Funeral Home in Romulus almost four years ago. They met when Bill made all the arrangements after Paulette's father died. "He's very good," she said.

Today, she admits, if necessary, she could handle any part of the business. "The job is really very positive. I enjoy being able to comfort people during these sad moments. But it can be difficult," she said.

She tackles the role of mother and stepmother with love and caring. Together she and Bill have two sons and one daughter. The family attends Calvary Baptist Church in Romulus.

Although she officially does not belong to any local board or organization, Crane often joins her husband to help with community projects. This includes the Romulus Festival Committee, the Chamber of Commerce or the Downtown Development Authority.

These activities are to com-

focus on people

plement her own full-time career at Eastern Michigan University where she has been an executive secretary for the past 17 years. She presently works for the executive athletic director.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: How can the funeral business be positive?

CRANE: It's a very caring, loving job. These aren't usually the best of times. I enjoy being able to comfort people during these sad moments.

You meet an awful lot of people, and I've made many new friends. It's difficult not to become emotionally involved.

I took a year leave of absence so Bill could teach me the business. I learned a whole lot. There's not a lot I couldn't do. Most of my involvement is maintaining the books. But couples should have their own and mutual interests. We do.

ANP: What are some of your outside interests?

CRANE: Bill and I both like gardening, motorcycles and travel. He just purchased the Cadillac of motorcycles, a Honda Gold Wing. We don't make any plans that can't be broken. That's the nature of the funeral home business.

We have a good time. Two summers ago, the entire family spent a week on a house boat on Kentucky Lake. Last year, we rafted the white waters in Ontario, Canada for two weeks. We like the outdoors. And I like to do fun things.

Bill goes on an annual fishing and hunting trip. I stay home and do whatever a good wife does (she laughs.) Seriously, sometimes I do surprise them and with something special when they return.

I like arts and crafts and ceramics. I enjoy doing things with my hands. Then I usually give the finished product away. And I like to decorate. We completed a lot of work here in our home and in the funeral home next door. Basically, it's just the finishing touches. But everything has been done by our hands.

Two years ago, the Romulus Beautification Committee presented us the most improved business award. We tried really hard.

ANP: How do you like Romulus?

CRANE: Of course, I love it. I

You meet an awful lot of people, and I've made many new friends. It's difficult not to become emotionally involved.

— Paulette Crane

find everybody very friendly. I was born and raised in Ypsilanti with one sister. Ypsilanti is a transient community compared with Romulus where everybody seems to know everyone. That can have its drawbacks. But it is nice to go somewhere and know people.

Romulus is a growing community with all the building developments. I hope it doesn't lose small town friendliness.

You get a good feeling from participating in community activities. People say thank you. The city Christmas party at the Holiday Inn showed people really working together. It was beautiful and I heard many favorable comments.

Just being a wife and mother along with everything else is enough to keep me going. I keep my sense of humor. It's important to put a smile on someone else's face.

ree. Before you can say the magic words "toll free" I'm going to be in the big money.

I only have to listen to these tapes on real estate for one hour a day and before you know it, it's jackpot time! I also have this rubber thing that is going to perform a miracle on the shape of my body, if I do these strange exercises for 15 minutes a day (and I can do that while I'm listening to my real estate tapes, right?)

What I have concluded is that daytime television plays on the emotions of its audience. It promises to right every wrong, remove every pain, and improve anything that is animal, vegetable or mineral.

I was saddened when I had to return to the real world, going into the office and dealing with real people and real situations, where the answers don't always come quick, easy or sometimes . . . at all.

I suppose that everything has its place in the world order of things. For the elderly, daytime TV may be better than a drug, it takes their minds from the reality of their own physical decline, and away from those they have loved but who are now gone or far away.

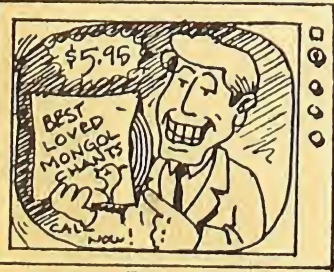

For those handicapped or infirm, it helps to pass the hours until they are once again mobile, or it numbs the brain to help forget that they will never be as they once were.

They say we get what we deserve. When we have such a marvelous tool as television which could be used for a higher purpose it makes me think.

I suspect that like this writer, television station owners and operators no doubt aspire to produce a product that operates on a higher plane and I suspect they know how to produce much better than we are presently offered.

But there is a higher reality, an economic reality. We all vote with our dollars. When we spend our money we vote our support and endorsement. The Ginsu knife, Ronco, and all the rest live because someone out there breathes economic life into them.

Rupert Murdoch says the way to make money is to find out what the people want and give it to them. If the present condition of daytime TV is what the people want, then I find the state of our world terribly sad.

See you next week.

Savor the sausage

Enhance the meals with deli delights

By CHEF LARRY JANES
ANP Special Writer

I can remember eagerly jumping in the car with my folks on Saturday morning for a 20-minute ride to a strange area littered with boarded-up buildings and vast junk-car cemeteries. It was the "old" area where mom and dad purchased their weekly allotment of luncheon meats, meats and homemade sausages.

It was a typical "mom and pop" operation, and the butcher would always slip me a bit of my favorite salami. Out behind the old butcher shop was what resembled an outhouse but what was really the old smokehouse where hams, kielbasa and numerous fish were smoked for the customers who came with nylons rolled down to their ankles and red plaid wood jackets smelling of a brewery or local beer-garten.

Saturday night dinner was always a blend of sausages and perfect potatoes that proved to be hearty and, even though I never appreciated it back then, truly extraordinary cuisine.

Potatoes and sausages began the century-old alliance when the Swedes united beef, pork and potatoes in a dish called "potatiskorv." I can recall mama browning some kielbasa and serving it with steaming scalloped potatoes. At other times, she would incorporate a hot German potato salad with a delectable spicy bratwurst. Saturday nights were special at our house.

Although potato dishes accompany store-bought sausages as readily as homemade ones, there are several benefits in turning out your own sausages. If it seems like a lot of work for something that contains the same ingredients as meatloaf, consider that you will know exactly what is in it. And homemade sausage has the added bonus of being preservative and additive free. This is important with news today concerning the ill effects of nitrites and preservatives.

Sausages are basic mixtures of meat, fat, spices and liquid. You can utilize cheaper and tougher cuts such as beef round, chuck or brisket because they will be tenderized by grinding. You have heard me tout the wonders of the great food processor, but when making sausage, I prefer to use a grinder (the old fashioned type that clamps onto the table top) because as the processor chops, it heats up the meat, giving the sausage a pasty texture. No need to go out and purchase a grinder though, obliging proprietors in small markets will usually perform this task for me at no charge.

Depending on the leanness of the meat, an additional 30-50 percent fat — pork fatback, lard, beef or lamb suet — is added to moisten and tenderize and most importantly, bind the sausage.

Although it's traditional to stuff the mixture into natural casings, you can roll the blend into lengths of plastic wrap or foil or shape it into patties. Whereas plastic wrap is easy and efficient, I prefer pork casings purchasing "half dolls" (7 1/2 yards) enough for 10 pounds of sausage. Packed in salt, natural casings last about one year in the fridge. They are easily obtained from most butchers and meat markets, especially in the market areas.

Filling casings is easiest when the sausage is filled through a grinder equipped with a stuffing horn. I have found that a wide-mouth funnel and some elbow grease and the handle of a spoon work, but not quite as easily. God only knows where I'd store that stuff.

I've prepared a handout sheet with general directions for making and cooking sausages. If you are interested, send me a self addressed, stamped envelope in care of this newspaper for a speedy reply. Here's are few "favorite" recipes passed down from Grandma Janes' file.

Bon Appetit!

BOCKWURST (Makes about 8 sausages)

3/4 lb. trimmed pork shoulder
3/4 lb. veal shoulder
2 tbsp. minced chives
3/4 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
dash cinnamon
2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. fresh ground white pepper
3 tbsp. white wine

Freeze pork, veal and fat for 30 minutes, then grind. Mix in spices and wine. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour. Stuff sausages into casings, tie or twist into 8 links. Hang in cool spot to dry or refrigerate on racks for 24 hours.

CHAMPAGNE SAUSAGE (Makes 10 5-inch sausages)

3/4 lb. pork shoulder
3/4 lb. beef chuck
1/2 lb. trimmed pork fat
2 medium garlic cloves

Baker born with 'spoon in hand'

Iva Niemi was born with a wooden spoon in her hand, 92 years ago in Cadillac, Mich. And just like a hurricane, Iva has cooked up a storm ever since. Now she lives in Romulus Senior Towers.

Since she moved in five years ago, Iva regularly prepares lunchtime treats for her neighbors, from stuffed cabbage to "all types of pies."

"Sometimes I come downstairs with a pan of beans. Of course, I doctor them up with spice leaves and stuff like that," she said.

"I've taken care of the sick all my life, friends, relatives and neighbors. Neither me, nor my brothers and sisters had any children. I have no relatives left, not a one. And I just love children. My apartment is filled with dolls and teddy bears. I even have a little Christmas tree. But I do have lots of friends who call me nearly every day," she said.

She remembers that both her mother and three sisters were excellent cooks.

in the kitchen

"I cook good old-fashioned things, from family recipes and books, by guessin' and by God," she admitted.

Sausage

1 large shallot
1/2 tsp. dried marjoram
1/2 tsp. paprika
2 tsp. salt
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
1/3 cup Champagne or dry red wine

Freeze pork, beef and fat for 30 minutes, grind through a grinder with garlic, shallot and walnuts. Stir in spices and champagne. Mix well. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour. Form into patties or stuff into casings. Dry for 24 hours.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE (Serves 4)

1 1/2 lbs. pork shoulder
1/2 lb. pork fat
2 1/4 tsp. fennel seed
1 small red chili pepper
1/2 tsp. dried marjoram
1/2 tsp. black pepper
1/2 tsp. minced garlic
1/4 tsp. paprika
2 tsp. salt
1/3 cup dry red wine

Freeze pork and fat for 30 minutes. Grind through a grinder. Crush fennel and chili pepper into a powder. Stir into sausage with other spices and wine. Mix well, cover and refrigerate for 1 hour. Stuff into casings, tie and twist into 9 links. Dry for 24 hours.

HOMEMADE CHORIZO

1 1/2 lbs. pork shoulder
1/2 lb. pork fat
1/2 small onion
2 medium cloves garlic
5 small dried red chili peppers
3 cloves
3/4 tsp. coriander
3/4 tsp. cumin
2 tsp. salt
3/4 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. dried oregano
1/8 tsp. ground red pepper
dash cinnamon
2 tbsp. red wine vinegar

Freeze pork and fat for 30 minutes, then grind through a grinder with onion and garlic. Crush chili peppers with cloves and coriander and mix into sausage with other spices and vinegar. Stuff into casings, dry for 24 hours.

Chamberlains celebrate 50th

Jim and Lillie (Gus) Chamberlain of Eureka Road, Romulus, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently.

The two were married Jan. 6, 1937, in Lewisville, Arkansas. They have raised four children: Norma Wiltscbeck, 47; Martha Galvin, 44; Jimmie Chamberlain, 42; and Leon Chamberlain, 40.

They also are grandparents to nine children and have one great-grandchild.

The two celebrated the occasion with dinner at a daughter's house in Mt. Clemens. A large celebration is planned in the spring.

Jim retired from Great Lakes Steel in 1976. The couple

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Chamberlain enjoy attending church and visiting their children and grandchildren.

The Chamberlains received a letter commending them on their marital accomplishments from both President Reagan and Gov. James Blanchard.

Berar-Southwell wed

Marilyn L. Berar and Gaylord Southwell, both of Wayne, were united in marriage Dec. 6 in a double-ring ceremony at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Canton. The Rev. Roger Aumann officiated.

The church was decorated with poinsettias, evergreens and stephanotis with ivory accents. Music was provided by organist John Hinck and Greg Southwell who sang a solo of "The Wedding Song."

Theme for the ceremony, which was attended by about 50 guests, was the joining of families with God as the center.

The bridal gown was emerald green silk brocade with a belted sheath. She wore her mother's pearls, and her hair adornment was twists of flower seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of poinsettia, stephanotis and ivory accents.

Maid of honor for the occasion was Erica Hedtler Berar, the bride's daughter.

Best man was Geoffrey Southwell, son of the groom. Ushers included Braden Getyina and Glenn Getyina.

Flower girl was Melanie Berar, daughter of the bride. She was escorted by ring bearer, Jason Southwell, the groom's son.

A reception followed the service at LeRight's. A pre-wedding party was given the evening before the wedding by the bride's friend, Patti Getyina.

The two traveled to Toronto by train for their honeymoon. The two have made their new home on Newberry Street, Wayne.

The bride is a sales associate with Lauri Caspari's of Twelve Oaks Mall. The groom is employed by Republic Die and Tool.

With United Health System and John Hancock's SelectCare, you're covered for emergencies no matter where it hurts.

Just present your SelectCare card and you have the name of John Hancock to back you — a name that's recognized everywhere.

Here are some other things you won't have to worry about.

Keep your doctor, choose one of our doctors, or choose one from outside the SelectCare Network (and still receive generous benefits).

Select different doctors for each member of your family, if you prefer. Select a new doctor whenever you wish.

Choose your favorite hospital, whether in the SelectCare Network or not, and still receive generous benefits.

There are no deductibles, no claim forms, no hassles with the SelectCare Network. No kidding.

Innovative health care is what United Health System and John Hancock's SelectCare is all about. SelectCare is a Preferred Provider Organization (PPO), a designation for a select group of hospitals, physicians and services. It's considered innovative because you can choose from our select group of "providers," the SelectCare Network, or you can choose other hospitals, physicians and services for a nominal out-of-pocket cost. Either way you save on costs over traditional coverage but retain maximum flexibility and choice.

Names you can trust: Beaumont, Oakwood, Providence and Saint John Hospitals are the founding hospitals of the SelectCare Network. And, of course, SelectCare is offered in association with John Hancock, one of the most experienced insurance companies in the world. We feel confident that their choices are among the best in the health care business.

Call 1-800-732-9602 if your employer offers SelectCare for comparisons with your current coverage and answers to your questions.

Grantham great in Belleville win over Wayne

For the first time, Tigers are in command of Wolverine 'A'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If there were any doubts that Belleville is a serious contender for the Wolverine 'A' Conference basketball championship, those doubts were dispelled Friday night.

Refusing to buckle, Coach Leon Birdyshaw's Tigers held on to win a cliffhanging 62-59 victory over visiting Wayne Memorial, the defending conference champ.

It went right down to the last play when Belleville playmaker and scoring leader Kris Grantham and Wayne's Mark Robinson stood toe-to-toe with less than 15 seconds left on the clock. Robinson had possession of the ball and Wayne had ample time to change the outcome of the game.

But, Grantham managed to swipe the ball from Robinson's hands and drive in for a layup that was detoured by a personal foul. With one second left, the handwriting was on the wall.

Grantham, who kept the Tigers alive, and Robinson, whose outstanding play was instrumental in keeping the cold Zebras in the game kept the outcome of the contest in doubt until those final seconds.

With 10 field goals - most of them drive-in layups and five of 13 from the free throw line, Grantham led all scorers with 25 points. Robinson's six field goals and six of nine free throws for 18 were the best the Zebras could manage. Wayne's three-week layoff proved costly for the two-time defending champ which had never previously lost to Belleville in the league.

"We were looking for that go-ahead point that we never got," said Wayne Coach Chuck Henry whose team is sporting a 2-1 conference record. "And, I believe that the three-week layoff really hurt us. This was our first game since Dec. 18."

Belleville is 3-0 in the league and for the first time has sole possession of the top of the standings. Whether they stay on top will depend on "improving" each week, says Birdyshaw.

"I felt lucky to win," said Birdyshaw. "Our free throw shooting was atrocious and this game could have gone either way. We're not going to be able to relax. We still have to go over there (to Wayne) and play. But our destiny is in our hands."

Both teams had their problems finding the basket in the first six minutes of the game. With the clock showing 2:18 left in the initial quarter, Belleville had but a 4-2 lead. Then Grantham and Ladion Tait came alive and sparked the Tigers to a 12-5 period.

Numerous turnovers and personal fouls kept the score down and, though Wayne rallied behind Robinson and Boyce Jackson, they never did manage to grab the lead away from the persistent Tigers. Belleville enjoyed a slim 27-22 edge at the intermission while both teams put 17 points on the scoreboard during the eight minutes after the half.

Along with Robinson's 18 points, Boyce Jackson also finished in double figures for the Zebras. He had 11. Teammate Cory Hines led the assault on the boards with 16 rebounds.

Tiger on the loose

Into the Tigers' den went Wayne's Mark Robinson(23) for two of his 18 points against Belleville Friday night (photo above, at left), but Robinson's outstanding performance was not enough as Belleville hung on to defeat the defending Wolverine 'A' Conference champ, 62-59. Champs stop Tigers

State-ranked Monroe, the defending Wolverine 'A' Conference swim champ, served notice via a 52-31 victory over Belleville, that it has every intention of retaining the coveted crown in its possession.

The Trojans ended Coach Bill Snider and the Tigers' winning streak at four, and established itself as the "team to beat in the league."

Belleville managed only three first places as Monroe stacked up eight. Snider's 200-yard medley relay team of Dave Traskos, Mike Ackron, Martin Duda and Eric Snider got the Tigers off to a winning start as the foursome turned in the best time of 1:47.24.

Belleville also finished first in the 50-yard freestyle thanks to Snider who was clocked in 23.31, while Gordon Clearwood and Paul Estrada gave Belleville a 1-2 on the diving boards, respectively. Clearwood had 213.45 points for the victory while Estrada's 206.75 gave him second place.

Belleville will return to the pool 7 p.m. tomorrow at Southgate, the newest member of the Wolverine 'A' Conference.

'Big week' for undefeated Inkster

This is the week that will either make or break Inkster High's basketball club.

Coach George Thompson Jr. and his Vikings have two big tests that will reveal whether the defending Suburban Athletic Conference champs are worthy of the title this year.

They faced always tough Highland Park last night and will meet Willow Run on Friday. The Highland Park game was switched from the Parker floor to Inkster because the Parkers' floor needed repairs, according to Thompson.

"Highland Park has another exceptionally talented team that is quick and tough on the boards," Thompson said after his Vikings made it six in a row at the expense of Oak Park (79-64). "And with Willow Run scheduled for Friday, we'll know a lot about our title chances at the end of this week."

Inkster took little chance with Oak Park as the Vikings built up a 16-8 first period lead on the strength of Andre Davis's all-around play and Darryl Green's outstanding floor play.

Although Inkster strolled into the locker room with a 37-29 advantage, the contest was never in doubt in the second half as the Vikings engineered a 15-point edge at one point giving Thompson an opportunity to substitute freely.

Davis, considered one of the finest all-around players to wear a Viking uniform and a legitimate all-state candidate, finished the evening with 29 points as he pumped in eight in the first and another eight points in the second period. Davis also had 12 rebounds and three blocked shots.

Green contributed to the victory with 17 assists and also sank nine points, while juniors Marvin Abney and Jerry Johnson also scored in double figures with 15 and 10 points, respectively.

"Our juniors are improving and hanging tough," noted Thompson. "Each is contributing to the success of this team in their own way."

Romulus rips Ypsi for win No. 2

Looking more like the team that captured the Class A state basketball title last year, Romulus crushed Ypsilanti 72-55 to chalk up its second victory of the 1986-87 campaign.

"I felt we played our best game thus far this season," said Romulus Coach Dan Henry. "We finally are putting things together out there."

Close the first half, the Eagles broke it open in the third period when they outscored their rivals 24-12 as southpaw Billy Johnson fired in 10 of his 18 points in that pivotal period.

Romulus had a slim 11-10 first period lead and widened its margin to 29-24 at the half-way mark before Johnson came alive.

Juan Street came up with his finest effort of the season as he contributed 19 points and 13 rebounds while teammate Luther Johnson also scored in double figures. Shannon who missed the first four games due to a football injury, appeared fully recovered as he came up with five field goals and five of six at the free throw line for 15 points.

Henry hopes the Eagles will keep their momentum at the expense of Ida. The Eagles will travel to Ida Friday night and Henry picked up a gold in the 145-pound division when veteran grappler Dave Brenkthe strolled off the mats a winner.

Coach Gerald Malacek also got a winning effort out of Bill Sparrow (155).

Belleville claims 3 golds at Ann Arbor

Belleville wrestlers struck gold at the Ann Arbor Invitational over the weekend.

With eight high school teams competing for honors, Belleville managed to emerge with gold medals in three weight classes. The Tigers won the 126-pound class thanks to Joey Yuhas, then picked up a gold in the 145-pound division when veteran grappler Dave Brenkthe strolled off the mats a winner. Coach Gerald Malacek also got a winning effort out of Bill Sparrow (155).

Romulus wins own mat invitational

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The confrontation between state-ranked Carlson and Romulus didn't materialize at the 9-team Romulus High Invitational Wrestling Tournament staged on Saturday as Carlson chose to send its 'B' squad to the meet.

Romulus easily won its third major tournament championship, emerging from the field with 192.5 points. In distant second was Southgate Aquinas which garnered 145 points, followed by Monroe (141.5), Ida (114), New Boston Huron (102.5), Northville (84.5), Roseville Brablec (60), Carlson 'B' team (23), and Redford Union (21).

Earlier in the season Romulus won the prestigious Westland John Glenn tournament title as well as the Trenton championship.

"Coach Butler (assistant coach Norm Butler) and I were very pleased with the results of this meet," said Romulus head coach Wayne Schimming. "However, if Carlson had sent its 'A' team to our meet, it would have been a pretty good battle - and I can't say which of our teams would have won."

Romulus entered the week of competition with an 8-1 won-lost dual record as Salem handed the Eagles their first setback of the current campaign. The Eagles will travel to Belleville on Thursday and compete in the Monroe Invitational on Saturday.

Romulus picked up three gold medals at its own tournament thanks to the performances by Charlie Crosby (98) who defeated Northville's Brad Maliszewski on a pin in 2:18; undefeated Tony Venturini picked up a gold in the 105-pound class as he was awarded a victory on a technical fall over Aaron Dohanyos of Aquinas, 17-2. Venturini also was presented the Hustler Award (for most falls in least amount of time).

Romulus' third gold medalist, 138-pounder, Jim Schlener, also kept his victory streak intact, turning back Aquinas' Tim Gardner in 3:57.

Schlener was named the Outstanding Wrestler for the invitational.

Romulus placed 12 wrestlers in medal-winning spots, collecting three second places with heavyweight Steve Anderson who lost in the finals to Monroe's Kurt Thayer by criteria; 155-pound Mark Dubyak also was runner-up, losing to New Boston's Mike Tavtigian, also on criteria, while 198-pound Trevor Asher settled for the silver when Ida's Mike Homolka won on a 1:16 fall.

Romulus finished with three third place medals: Craig Stewart (112); Bruce Boyd (119), and Jon Bergman (145). Dennis Corder (126), Rick Champagne (132), and Ralph Farrell (167) contributed fourth places for the Eagles.

Another gem in Romulus' crown

Placing 12 of their grapplers in the top four berths and claiming three gold medals, Romulus High's wrestling team (above) won their own invitational over the weekend. It was the third major tournament title for Coach Wayne Schimming's club this year. ANP photo by Guy Warren, staff photographer.

Wayne dunks Parkers

Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn went their separate ways on Thursday and found key conference swim victories at the end of the trail.

Wayne Coach Jim

McPartlin's Zebras dunked Lincoln Park 109-62 for their second Wolverine 'A' Conference triumph in as many starts. Jim Davis provided Wayne with two of its eight first places. Davis won the 200-yard freestyle event (1:59.1), and also captured a first in the 100-yard free.

Wayne is host to league rival, Fordson, Thursday night.

Volleyball, anyone?

The Romulus Parks and Recreation Department is organizing a "drop-in" volleyball program for women. The program will be conducted 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Monday.

There is a 75 cents per night registration fee.

Those wishing to participate should telephone 942-6852.

3. Card of Thanks
PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT Holy spirit, You who makes me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideals; You who gives me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you, no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Persons may pray this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3rd day, wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor has been granted. 12n
